Cloud Solutions

Computer Nerds can help your business in several ways. One in particular is the need to share data between your staff without having to outlay lots of money for your own in house server.

The general idea of the "cloud" is to store your data on the internet so you can access it from any device at any time as opposed to leaving it on a single PC. Now with cloud services you can juggle your data between multiple computers, tablets and smartphones. Your data is securely backed up in real time across multiple datacentres.
